

We are a sales automation and training agency. We chose the name iwant2help because we really care about supporting small and medium enterprises to upscale their sales skills and automate their functions. Our aim is to expand our revenue by providing more digital transformation projects by using the technology of our partner Zoho Corp.

Our interest is to add to the team at least 2 new developers who will be able to understand the requirements and specifications of each project and deliver functions (code) or other customizations for many Zoho apps. For this, a wide knowledge of the Deluge language is required and which is similar to Javascript. Also there is a need to be trained in Zoho various applications which are more than 50 at this point. For that reason, the first part of such a cooperation will start with training and that means that our team will invest a lot in the chosen candidates. After the completion of training, each candidate will be certified in certain products and will be able to add these certifications as extra skills to his/her curriculum.

The candidates will be able to work remotely in a freelance mode and get paid on a by-project basis and according to work hours reported. In some cases also they'll have to come in contact with clients or participate in meetings in order to grasp the client's needs.

Requirements

- Fluent in English
- Good Java and Javascript knowledge
- Undergraduate or postgraduate student on related field
- Self disciplined
- Highly motivated
- Working under pressure
- Delivering on time

Benefits

- Free training on new applications and technology
- Collaborating with a world wide established uprising firm
- Uniqueness and scarcity of knowledge in the Greek Market
- Flexible work time
- High compensation on a "per hour" basis
- Remote job

For Applications please visit our Career Site